

LIVE NEWS FROM THE TWIN CITIES

TAG DAY FOR SCOUTS

A tag will be held on the streets of East Chicago tomorrow for the benefit of the Boy Scouts. It is hoped that enough money will be received to keep the organization going until the regular yearly drive is put on.

Because of unsettled conditions in East Chicago last fall and spring, the Scout drive did not get the necessary amount to run the organization for the year. For the past several months the organization has been short of funds and has managed only by curtailing activities to keep the organization intact.

A tag for the benefit of the Scouts was attempted last Saturday, but the small boys who were sent out to tag met with small success. The taggers tomorrow will be young ladies and it is expected that the tag will not be enough to take care of the scout work until the regular finance drive next month.

FALL PROVES FATAL

A fall from a chair last night proved fatal to little five-year-old Stella Frank, 4023 Deodar st., Indiana Harbor. The child was playing on the chair when she slipped and fell to the floor, striking her head. She suffered a fractured skull, from which she died a short time later. Dr. F. H. Mervis, deputy coroner, was called but was unable to save the child.

WARNING ABOUT POWER

Citizens of Indiana Harbor may expect poor electrical service after 10 o'clock next Saturday night and all day Sunday, according to information received from the Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Co. by city Engineer C. K. Wallace yesterday.

In order to give better service the electric company is erecting a new sub-station at Indiana Harbor for their 2500 volt power transformers. In order to make final connections it will be necessary for them to discontinue service for a time on Sunday, Aug. 23, and since they are going to move some of their apparatus Saturday night the service late that night will be poor.

Monday morning the company expects to have everything completed, and after that promise that the service will be greatly improved over that which the citizens of Indiana Harbor have been getting.

OPENING CIVIC CLUB

The re-opening of the Indiana Harbor Civic club dining service next Monday will mark the beginning of what the club officials promise will be the best year that the club has ever had. Not only will the dining service
